At a pawn shop Alan stopped and hought a pair of binoculars. Powerful x-12s of a costly make, they put a sad dent in his roll: Farther should be managed to purchase two beau automatics, alipping the propriets red nollars extra in lieu of a permit. Then came emergency food for the trip and the flying togs Buzzard had advised him to get.

He still lacked a folding cance, a number of small Hems, and one last piece of equipment—the most vital of all his adventure. Down to fifteen dollars, he went into another pawn chop and soaked his expensive watch and a diamond heirloom of his mothers, making the owner promise to hold them for six months. With a hundred and seventy-sive in his pocket, and a second-hand Ingersoil which the old gentleman had kindly given him, he walked out, breathing easier.

Aspirin brings you immediate relief. It acts before you can feel any effect at all from the slower forms of relief.

Do not hesitate to take Aspirin tablets because of this speed. Their quick action is due to the fact they dissolve immediately. They are perfectly safe. They do not depress the heart.

That's the beauty of a remedy like Aspirin. Anyone can take it, as often as there is any need of its comfort. In sufficient quantity to get complete relief. You could take Aspirin every day in the year without ill effects.

When you want relief from headaches, colds, neuralgia, or neuritis, periodic pains, etc., stick to Aspirin. You kaprin. You know what it will do, and you know what you are taking.

The new reduced price on bottles of 100 tablets leaves no reason for experimenting with any substitute for relieving pain. Insist on Aspirin.

It is by doing our duty that we learn to do it. So long as men dispute whether or no a thing is their duty, they mever get nearer. Let them set ever so weakly about doing it, and the face of things alters. They find in the face of things alters. They find in themselves strength which they knew not of. Difficulties, which it seemed to them they could not get over, disappear. That which is called considering what is our duty in a particular case, is very often nothing but endeavoring to explain it away.—Bishop Butler.

Sold In London
An auction sale was held in the West-end of London, England, recently and a spy-glass was put up for sale. It brought the equivalent of $7,700 par value. It was not nearly as good as any modern spy-glass costing a few dollars would be, nor was it encrusted with dismonds. But it is probably the most famous of its, kind in the world.

It was the glass that Nelson held up to his blind eye and said, quite truthrully, that he did not see an overwhelming armada bearing down upon his fleet at Trafalgar.

Prince Conducts Band
The Pince of Wales, using a drumstick for a baton, conducted the band in a lively foxtrot at the St. David's Day dance given by the 1st Battalion of the Weish Guards, of which he is the Colonel. The Prince's rendition was repeatedly encored until he laughingly told the dancers that conducting was more strenuous than dancing. Later he acted as master of ceremonies, selecting the tunes.

A Financial Jig Saw Puzzle.

The fact has been noted in this column on previous occasions that during the past two or three years everybody has been discussing the monetary situation prevailing in the world today, and expressing opinions and offering solutions in regard thereto even though they facked the most elementary showledge of the subject. People informed and uninformed, from the most outstanding economists and financiers to the most indifferent student or casual newspaper reader, have discussed banking, currency, credits, the gold standard, inflation, deflation, international exchange, and a host of allied subjects, with the same freedom and frequently with the same assurance with which they are in the habit of discussing the weather.

This, of course, people have a right to do, but the net result has been the dissemination of a vast-amount of misinformation and utterly unsound theories, the outcome of which is that large numbers of people are not think: fing straight on this important subject, while the majority of the population are hopelessly bewildered and confused, and do not know whose or what opinions to accept as sound and a safe guide to action.

Nor is this to be wondered at, because even some of the most generally accepted theories,—theories advanced, by world famous economists,—have been proven incorrect when put to the test of actual experience. This was demonstrated in most startling fashion in the United States in the last few days of February and the first days of March. Events across the line moved duty great trapidity, and the outcome was to upset previously held views in some important particulars.

Great Britain went off the gold standard in order to check the draining away of its gold reserves and to stop the export of gold from the country. It frankly and officially amounced it had gone of the gold standard. So, people are asking, what is a gold standard from the outlet States in the last development of all came in the United States had accumulated more than a third of all the gold in the world, yet it, too, r noney." notwithstanding that it had no gold backing, because it was supported by real assets.

Now, according to formerly generally accepted financial opinion, the issue of such new currency unbacked by gold would have the effect of depreciating the value of the country's currency. That is, the United States dollar would drop in value in relation to the currencies of other countries. The amazing thing that happened was, instead of the United States dollar would drop in value in relation to the currencies of other countries. The amazing thing that happened was, instead of the United States dollar would stream of Canadian dollars or British pointain, it actually increased in value and was worth more. The discount on the Canadian dollar in the United States was increased, and the prenium on the United States dollar in Canada became larger.

This process was exactly the reverse of what every financial authority and authoritative economist in Canada had been telling the people of this Dominion would be the effect of inflating our currency by the issue of new paper money which was not supported by a gold backing, Such inflation.

Were told, would be the abandonment of 'sound, money,' would result in a further depreciation of our money on the world's money markets, and would will be abandonment of 'sound, money,' would result in a further depreciation of our money on the world's money markets, and would be the cutters were aliasted of United States dollars depreciating on foreign exchange markets, due to the cutters were aliasted of United States dollars depreciating on foreign exchange markets, and well to sink' their blades into the usual depth. Turno icenne are preparliant of the cutters were demands from the outside market.

they actually linerease in value.

If this is the effect in the United States, why should an exactly opposite effect be the result in Canada if a similar policy was indulged in? It will be interesting to hear the explanations of our Canadian financiers and economics.

interesting to near use exponential mists.

It has been widely contended that inflation should be indulged in by Canada to an extent sufficient to bring the Canadian dollar to a parity with the British pound and thereby promote a larger exchange of trade between the two countries and secure to the primary producer in Canada a better price in Canadian dollars for the products he sold in Great Britain. But, it was likewise argued, another effect would be to increase the already happy premium Canada is now obliged to pay on all its commitments in the United States.

But, as already noted, inflation in the United States has not worked his way, but in exactly the opposite way. It has not brought the United thates dollar near the British pound, but farther away from it. It has not decreased the premium which Canada has to pay in New York, but increased the I findation worked the same way in Canada it would not prove an advantage of the Canada contract of the Canada it would not prove an advantage of the Canada it would creased the premium which Canada has to pay in New York, but increased II. If infiniton worked the same way in Canada it would not prove an advantage to the primary producers, who have been urging infiniton, but impose a further loss upon them; it would not add to the burden of our governments and business interests having large commitments to meet in New York, and who have therefore opposed infiniton, but it would assist them.

It is all far more complicated and confusing than a jig-saw puzzle because the pieces do not fit together at all, while in the popular puzzles of today the pieces can be made to fit.

The plan, drawn up by Mr. MacDonald, and Sir John Simon after a wreek of diligent conversations, will be made world with the general commission. U. S. WILL SEEK WAY TO REDUCE WHEAT OUTPUT

Washington.—The United States

Washington.—The United States administration revealed itself recentive as already considering overtures with other nations looking to mass action against agricultural surpluses and tariff barriers.

As proof of its sincerity in this move for economic betterment, the Roosevelt government will select from congress broad powers to control farm production and has made clear it stands ready to practice what it breaches on cuiting high tariffs if other countries will follow suit. It was disclosed that already the project of limiting wheat production to the level of world consumption by agreement among the great grain-roducing nations, Canada among them, has been discussed informally with representatives of other government.

BRITAIN MAY SEVER RELATIONS WITH SOVIETS

London, Eng.—Possibility of a severance of relations between Great. Britain and Soviet Russia was discussed in political and business circles as a result of the puzzl og arrest of British subjects representing a British concern in the Soviet.

No progress toward a settlement of the affair was made at a conference in the foreign office to which the Russian ambassador was summoned. He was requested to impress his government with the serious view of the situation taken here.

Should the case remain unsettled on April 16, when the present trade agreement with Russia terminates, there would be a possibility of an embargo on Russian goods, it was said.

The British government is con-vinced there is no ground for accusa-tions of sabotage against those who-were arrested.
